

Bending Spoons Hiring Team

Dear Bending Spoons Hiring Team,

I started programming at 11, out of pure curiosity, and that curiosity has shaped who I am ever since. I didn't complete my Computer Science degree — circumstances at the time didn't allow it — but that never changed what drives me.

What attracts me to Bending Spoons is the caliber of people you bring together: highly skilled professionals building products at a global scale. That's exactly the kind of challenge I'm looking for — an environment where I can measure myself against real complexity, learn from people who are better than me at what they do, and grow faster than I would anywhere else.

I'd welcome the chance to prove it through your process.

Best regards,

Gabriele Canò Cantelmo
